Just Like Gold Coin.

For more than fifty years has PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER stood the test against all remedies prepared to eradicate pain, and today stands at the head of the list among the medicines that are so essential to keep at hand in the home.

It is not a new fangle remedy nor do the proprietors lay claim to any wonderful revelation of the ingredients that enter into the manufacture of this ever popular remedy.

It is perfectly harmless, you need have no fear of becoming habitually inclined to its use.

For Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, Colds, and all painful affections, a few doses will certainly give relief. You cannot afford to be without a bottle in the house.

Your forefathers used it and found it beneficial.

Why experiment with some remedy that is new and its effect on the system unknown?

It has many rivals but no equal.

Price 25c. and 50c. a bottle.

"THE GREEN HOUR."

When All Paris Sits Down For Its Sip of Absinth.

Your American tourist, sitting through Paris in his summer jog to the Riviera or to Rome, with his palate accustomed to the favorite tipple of New York, finds food for curious reflection in the Parisian's absinth. The Frenchman's "green hour" is to him an unknown quality. The absinth outfit in Paris is a tall can of food water, a full sized goblet, a flat spoon with pierced bowl and a cake of beet sugar. From a bottle of thick, oily, green absinth the garcon pours into the goblet a layer whose thickness grows slowly until your uplifted finger warns him you have enough. Two fingers is a good beginning. After that you are likely to take more. When the garcon has departed, you lay the silver spoon across the top of the goblet, place the flat cake of sugar in its bowl, which is made exactly to hold it, and pour a tiny stream of food water from the can slowly upon it. The water trickles down through the bowl, dissolving the sugar as it comes, and by the time the goblet is full the water has turned from the deep green of the pure absinth to the murky yellowish green which one forever afterward associates with the drink.

Now sip it slowly as you would an egg-nog and feel your temperature rise, bringing with it a mild thirst and a gnawing appetite. This is the "green hour," from 6 to 7 in the evening, and you are now a part of it. As you grow deliciously warmer and your thoughts come quicker and the atmosphere grows rozier, look at the goblet, and, watching its changing dolphin colors, think how like this drink is to the Frenchman himself, who has made it his own. It is soft and milky, like his manners, seasoned and sharply spiced like his taste, perfumed and fragrant like his foppery, exquisitely sweetened like his politeness, bitter like his philosophy, green like his jealousy, yellow like his morality and inflaming like his passions.—New York Press.

Rich Nobodies.

London is full of rich people who, socially speaking, are nonentities; not because there is anything against them, but because they belong to another world and not to this one which we are considering. Walking one day, early in my London experiences, with Mr. Kingslake through a well known quarter of the far west end of London I asked him who lived in a certain house. "I do not know," he answered, adding, in his reflective way: "Nothing in London is more remarkable than such a district as this. For the last half hour we have been wandering among houses the possession of which implies wealth. You could not live in such a house for less than £5,000 or £10,000 a year, often more, and not a single person you ever saw or heard of lives in any one of them." They have a society of their own, but it is not society. They are important persons in the city, or in whatever department of business or industry they belong to. And the chances are that London sees their names for the first time when they die, and their wills are published in an illustrated weekly paper, with the amounts of their fortunes.—Harper's Magazine.

Reasons Why.

There are two reasons why people are now paying car fare all the way from Waikiki to the Palama Grocery and back. Reason 1. It is the only place on the Islands where the celebrated Salvation Army tea is sold. Reason 2. After paying car fare both ways patrons find they are money in pocket by dealing at this "live and let live" establishment. We also deliver goods between Diamond Head and Moanalua free.

HONOLULU, April 21, 1896.
Mr. C. W. MACFARLANE:—It affords me pleasure to recommend, to any one whose hair is falling out, the use of DR. POTTIE'S HAIR OIL. My hair was coming out at such a rate as led me to believe that I would soon become bald. After using the oil for five weeks this ceased entirely; none whatever is now falling out. I consider it the best and only worthy remedy for this trouble and also recommend it as a stimulant to new growth.
